INSPECTION IS MADE OF MINING PROPERTY

Representing former Senator Thomas Kearns, Oliver Allen, the well-known mining expert of Park City, has just completed an inspection of the Bollermaier group of mining claims located in Box Elder county, about eight miles from Brigham City. The group of claims is owned by Art Mohlman, Tom Watson, Dave Watson and Will Watson, residents of Park City. Mr. Mohlman has just received a report from the mining engineer which is highly encouraging. Some of the ore samples taken from the mine will run as high as 200 ounces of silver. On the surface of the claims Mr. Allen found eight feet of rose quartz and galena, and in the tunnel, which is 800 feet long and reaching a depth of 900 feet, a fine vein of cube galena is being followed. According to Mr. Allen's report from the observations he has made, there are big bodies of rich ore to be opened up before long.

ORACLE—ISIS—GLOBE—JOIE

We gave away SIX of those beautiful complete suits of Ladies' Ribbon and Lace Trimmed Muslin Underwear last week.

The ladies winning the prizes were delighted with them and we still have a number left. This week we will give away TWO SUITS in the ORACLE and TWO in the GLOBE Wednesday afternoon, and TWO in the ISIS Thursday afternoon.

Just think, those SUITS retail from $5.00 to $8.00 per Suit. We got a limited supply at such a low price from one of our leading dry goods houses is the reason we can afford to give them away as we do.

DON'T MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY TO GET ONE OF THE BEAUTIFUL SUITS FOR TEN CENTS.

A Coupon with each 10-cent ticket for Ladies. Drawing each day before you leave the Theater.

GRADUATES FROM THE ACADEMY

Beautiful indeed was the scene presented at Sacred Heart academy yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, when six young ladies took their final leave of friends, teachers and companions and started on life's voyage. The assembly hall of the academy was filled with appreciative friends who viewed with delight a flower-decked stage, whose prevailing colors were the gold and white of the class of 1910. Festoons of ferns and daisies made a bower of loveliness in which the following program was rendered:

Class of nineteen hundred and ten, academic course: Miss Loretta M. Clause, Ely, Nevada; Miss Edna M. Hamilton, Evanston, Wyo.; Miss Susie E. Jackman, Ogden, Utah; Miss Agnes E. Kennedy, Rawlins, Wyo.; Miss Marguerite E. McNulty, Ogden, Utah.

Program.
"Drift, My Boat" (Kucklen)—Soprano chorus class. Soloists: Misses Ragan and Thorpe.
Class Poem, "Youth's Daisy Chain"—Miss Jackman.
Faust, (Alard)—Violin, Miss Keckler, piano, Miss Rich.
Essay, "The Genius and Character of the Celt"—Miss Kennedy.
Recitativo from "Jocelyn" (Godard)—Miss McNulty. Piano, Miss Krauss.
Violin Obligato, Miss Keckler.
Essay, "The Mission of Culture"—Miss Hamilton.
Andante, Symphony No. 5 (Beethoven)—Misses Krauss, Jackman.
Essay, "The Humble Poets"—Miss McNulty.
Scene and Aria "Judith" (Concone)—Miss Hamilton. Piano, Miss Krauss.
Essay, "Uncrowned Queens"—Miss Clause.

Zapateado (Sarante)—Violin, Miss G. Malone, piano, Miss Rich.
Ave Maria (Brahms)—Misses McNulty, Grill, Hamilton, Jackman, Keckler, Thorpe, Tyler, Ragan, McClure, Musgrave.

Conferring of diplomas and gold medals in the academic course.
Valedictory, "Life's Melodies"—Miss Krauss.
Class song, Miss McNulty and class of 1910.
Address to the graduates—Rev. P. M. Cushman.

Art exhibit in library on second floor. Needle work display on third floor.
Sacred Heart Alumnae reception, academy parlors, 8:11 p. m.
The opening chorus struck the keynote of the program. It was well rendered, braced with an harmonious blending that showed excellent training. Miss McNulty's singing of the Berceuse from Jocelyn indicated sympathetic interpretation and a voice of unusual quality, while Miss Hamilton's vocal number was in marked contrast and displayed a dramatic power of rare promise. Brahms' Ave Maria was indeed a prayer of song, verifying the line of Sidney Lanier "Music is love in search of a word."

The instrumental numbers, violin and piano, were artistically rendered. Miss Keckler played Faust with skill and spirit, handling her instrument with graceful ease. Miss G. Malone gave an unusual interpretation, for one of her years, of the Sarasate number, while Misses Krauss and Jackman's playing of the Beethoven Symphony might take rank with many concert performances.

The essays of the graduates were the special feature of the day's program.

gram. Many are wont to believe that the productions read by young ladies on such occasions, lack originality. The papers of the class of 1910 were present for inspection, in their uncorrected state, to whomsoever wished to peruse them, in each case they were productions of merit.

The class poem, read by Miss Jackman, and the verse effort of the same young lady held a touch of poetry. The clear, impressive reading added much to the production. Strong and embodying a touch of the national pride was Miss Kennedy's paper, in which she proved the genius and character of her ancestors, and showed a sympathetic spirit with everything Celtic. Miss Hamilton's paper was a plea for true culture, the performance of duty, and the rights of our fellowmen. Her theme was strong and well delivered. With a gentle touch Miss McNulty voiced the mission of life's humble slayers and convinced her hearers that their songs have power. "Uncrowned Queens," the theme of Miss Clause, was a subject dear to all—the love and devotion of the mother; the young lady was imbued with the sentiments to which she gave utterance.

The conferring of diplomas and gold medals fell to the lot of one who has known the members of this class for many years—some, indeed, from babyhood—Rev. P. M. Cushman. As each graduate stood to hear her averages read, then on bended knee received the long-coveted medal, a thrill filled the hearts of many in the audience as they thought of future years when life's cares might press heavily and only the dear memories of school days would cheer them on.

To Miss Mabel Krauss fell the honor of reading her beautiful poetic effort, "Life's Melodies," a valedictory that in thought and execution did credit to the young lady. At its conclusion, there were few dry eyes in the vast assembly, and she retired to give place to Miss McNulty, who sang the solo parts of the class song, set to the tender air of "The Last Rose of Summer." All the members of 1910 joined in the concluding strains, which proved "music, the mover of hearts."

The address to the graduates was delivered by Rev. P. M. Cushman. It was full of paternal advice, and the restoration of an inspiration prompted by solitude and devotion. Other clergymen present were Rev. T. Landry, Rev. J. B. Thompson, Rev. L. Moran, Montana; Rev. R. Kayser, Boise, Ida.; and Rev. Sheehan of Ely, Nev.; Rev. Timothy Brennan and Dean Harris, Salt Lake; Father Galligan, Park City.

The art exhibit and needlework display attracted many visitors, who admired the excellent specimens of China painting, oil and water color, as well as the essential drawing, while a pillow show, displaying inviting downy headrests with appropriate mottoes was novel and unique.

In the evening the Sacred Heart Alumnae took possession of the house and, in honor of the class of 1910, tendered a most cordial reception, which was accepted by Ogden's representative citizens and many visiting guests. The decorations were unique in design—streamers of electric lights making brilliant halls and stairways. The parlor, where refreshments were served, was a veritable Japanese tea garden, while the colors of the class 1910 were predominant in the reception rooms. The music was stirring and entrancing, and many old pupils lived again "the daily days of youth," with the class of 1910. Friends of the institution pronounced the closing exercises of this year at Sacred Heart academy brilliant, indeed.

BIG SALE FOR MRS. FISKE THIS MORNING

The seat sale for Mrs. Fiske in "Becky Sharp" is good. "The people of Ogden can be relied upon to support the best in theatricals. Mrs. Fiske will no doubt be greeted by a large and representative audience," said Mr. Allison this afternoon. "We have had some good things this line the past season but it will remain for Mrs. Fiske and her Manhattan company to eclipse any effort made this winter by any company. Her character, 'Becky Sharp,' an adaptation from Thackeray's 'Vanity Fair,' conceded to be the greatest novel ever written, will furnish theatergoers an opportunity to see the greatest American actress in the greatest character ever written. People can obtain any price seat they may desire, the theater will be cool and comfortable, and no effort will be spared to make the best performance ever given in Ogden. Seats are now selling.

The funeral services of Christiana Johanna Erickson, the wife of Carl V. Erickson, will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Wilson ward meetinghouse. Friends of the deceased who wish to view the remains may do so from 9 till 1 on the day of the funeral. Interment will be made in the Ogden City cemetery.

SHE OFFERED TO MARRY THE BOY

If Judge Murphy Would Relent and Save Emil Bartello From Jail—Old Woman of 60 in Love With a Young Fellow of Bad Habits.

Emil Bartello was arraigned for vagrancy and he was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or serve ten days in the city bastille in police court this morning.

Emil is the young man who accompanied Frank Tica in his shooting escapade of Tuesday, he leading the gun for Frank before the shooting began on Grant avenue and Twenty-fifth street. Emil said, however, that he did not know that Frank was going to "shoot up" the town when he aided him in placing the cartridges in the gun. The young man shed tears when the court told him that he had been accessory to a "near tragedy," and that it might have been the means of landing him in the state penitentiary.

A woman appeared on the scene in behalf of Emil, she stating that she was ready to marry the young man and get him out of his trouble; and she implored the officers and the court to let him go without punishment. Judge Murphy, however, refused to listen to the woman's pleadings and ordered that the young man be given a lesson, and that he be kept in the city bastille ten days or pay a fine of $10.

The woman who appeared in the interests of the defendant did not give her name, but she was very solicitous for the young fellow. Emil is only 25 years of age, while his admirer is about 60 years and deeply infatuated. Detective Pender consoled the lady, stating to her that there was a little question but that she could get a pardon for the object of her love if she would present the case to the mayor.

FAVORS THE CURFEW LAW

Dr. Gowans of the State Industrial school gave an interesting and instructive lecture to the Fourth parents' class Sunday morning, his subject being on the law of curfew and the necessity of enforcing that law.

"The law of curfew," he said, "is a law restricting our young people under the age of sixteen years from being on the streets without a proper chaperon after the hour of 9. Is it or is it not wise, to restrict the young people under that age from wandering the streets, frequenting picture shows, etc., at 9, 10, 11 and even 12 o'clock at night? I think all will agree that this is a law that ought to be strictly enforced as nearly all serious trouble and delinquency happens to our young people after the curfew hour."

He related a number of instances, that have come under his direct observation, of young people being continually thrown into bad company by being allowed to go and come as they pleased and at any time without any restriction whatever.

"What we are seeking for is to have public sentiment in favor of enforcing this law, thus protecting our sons and daughters from improper company and environment."

He spoke of the scene that meets our gaze on Washington avenue and Twenty-fifth street in the evening from 9 to 12 o'clock—girls and boys of tender age, unaccompanied, promiscuously mingling, coming from shows and other places of amusement.

"What does this mean?" he asked. "It means that our children are being trained to seek amusement outside of home."

He related a number of instances of men and women of such training and the misery of their homes. Dr. Gowans thinks it is a serious habit and one that ought to be stopped.

"Something must be done to bring our children up in purity and right-thinking. Control their social environment, establish certain standards. If necessary, and live up to those standards."

"Social activity is a necessity," he and that you will from this time forward resolve to be a man.

"The testimony shows that you were intrusted with the property of a friend and that before you had hardly taken the ring into your possession, you were looking for a pawnshop where you could sell it and use the money for your own purposes. Now, don't do that kind of business any more. When you have served your time in the county jail, start out with right ideas about life, and be a man. You are young and are now being given an opportunity to make good in this world. I hope you will improve the opportunity."

The young man was taken to the county jail, where he will begin serving the time allotted him by the court. He has been in jail since the first of May and the court took that fact into consideration when the 60-day sentence was passed.

READY FOR OLD FOLKS AT TOWN OF TOOELE

Tooele, June 22.—Most elaborate preparations are being made for Old Folks' day celebration at this place today. A committee will meet the old folks at the San Pedro depot, and they will go straight to the International smelter, over the Tooele valley railroad, where they will be guests of honor and will be shown over the grounds and all parts of the great smelter will be minutely described. From there they will come back over the Tooele Valley road to the beautiful grove just north of the Tooele Valley ward meeting house, where there will be more than a hundred tables laden with good things for them to eat. Each table will be supplied with a sufficient number of waiters to wait on the crowd. There are entertainment committees, doctors and nurses' committees. In fact, there has not been left undone one thing to make the old folks happy and comfortable throughout the day.

There will be brass bands, speeches and all else necessary to their pleasure. The town has been decorated in all parts in their honor, and it will be all around a day long to be remembered. Every one is invited, regardless of color, age or denomination. Every one 70 years old or over is admitted free to everything, including transportation over both the San Pedro and Tooele Valley railroads.

The following program will be carried out during the afternoon:
Music—Band.
Singing—Choir.
Speech of welcome—President H. S. Gowans.
Solo—Prof. Kent of Salt Lake City.
Speech—Quartet—Lee brothers and Stephens.
C. R. McBride will be master of ceremonies.

The voluntary fire departments will keep the streets well sprinkled.

There will be a grand ball in the evening at the opera house.

TRIBUTE TO BUILDER OF SALT LAKE ROUTE

The indomitable and imperishable builder of the Salt Lake railroad, Sanator A. W. Clark, is to be congratulated upon the final restoration of his line through the washed-out section of southern Nevada. The calamity that overtook the road months ago and entirely washed the roadbed from off the face of the earth, was staggering in its results and in most any other case would have proven fatal; for the restoration of the road, so extensive was the damage, meant the reconstruction of miles upon miles of roadbed, the replacement of as many miles of rail and the purchase of much expensive rolling stock, for it will be remembered that the flood that washed away the tracks also carried with it complete freight and passenger trains, and piled them up into scrap heaps.

Telegraphic dispatches state that the first Overland limited train on the restored railroad will start east from Los Angeles tomorrow night, and that the train from Chicago for Los Angeles starts today. This marks the passing of the worst tragedy that has overwhelmed a railroad, and it is also the monument to the courage and resourcefulness of that big little giant in the railroad and industrial world, William A. Clark—Goldfield News.

TOMORROW NIGHT MRS. FISKE TOMORROW NIGHT

As an evidence of the general excellence of the Manhattan company which Harrison Grey Fiske will bring here for Mrs. Fiske's engagement in "Becky Sharp," at the Ogden theater, Thursday, June 23rd, it may be mentioned that the important part of the Marquis of Steyne, will be taken by Holbrook Blinn.

Mr. Blinn is a Stanford university man and brings a deal of intelligence into his work. His creation of the regenerated jail-bird Jim Platt, in "Salvation Nell," in support of Mrs. Fiske, placed him in an enviable position, but he had already earned considerable reputation for his remarkable work in "The First Born," "The Cat and the Chorus," and as Napoleon in the "Duchess of Dantzig."

Mr. Blinn is a young man and his schooling with Mrs. Fiske ought to mean that he will soon join the group of American stars composed of graduates from this same company, among them John Mason and George Arliss.

The American stage is fast gaining a reputation abroad for a perfectly sane development of technical stage direction and realism, and one of the men who are accomplishing the most along these lines, is Harrison Grey Fiske who will present Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan company in Langdon Mitchell's comedy "Becky Sharp," at the Ogden theater.
